

“The Voice of a Nation”

Believing that the power and the voice of a nation emanates from the people, the Founding Fathers based this country on the principles of liberty, justice, and freedom. The Founding Fathers believed that the American dream should be accessible to everyone. If I had the chance to talk to the Founding Fathers, I would tell them how their ideas have affected this country, and I would ask them what inspired their amazing perseverance, dedication, and convictions that led this nation to freedom.

Fighting tirelessly, the Founding Fathers liberated this great nation from England with eloquence, strength, and determination much like veterans fight to protect the freedoms we have today. If I could talk to the Founding Fathers, I would want to know what inspired them to crusade for justice. When I think of the founding fathers, I think of veterans; both were vital to the success of America as they fought and protected this country from enemies who threatened peace, prosperity, and the justice of this great nation.

America has evolved over the years, and the technologies, leaders, and innovations have changed, but I would tell our forefathers that one thing has stayed the same; the voice of America is and always will be the voice of the people. No matter who you are, we are a country where the common person has input, and everyone has equal opportunity to make a difference.

The Founding Fathers believed in a country where people could achieve and where ambition and perseverance was rewarded. If I could talk to the Founding Fathers, I would ask them how they feel their ideas have shaped this extraordinary country into being a world superpower and thank them for giving me the opportunity to achieve an education and live in freedom. Because of our forefathers' ideas, America is a country where with dedication, hard work, and perseverance, you can accomplish anything. I hope to be a lawyer as an adult, so I can act as the founding fathers did by making sure justice is applied to all situations. Every American has an obligation to the country to strive for excellence.

Finally, I'd tell the Founding Fathers that America's core beliefs have not changed and that the ideals they fought for are still strongly believed in as America will always be “The land of the free, and the home of the brave.”
